VOL. XIX. No. 5,584. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1894. 30 CENTS PER MONTH, PRICE 2 CENTS,

LOYAL TO CLEVELAND.

No Disagreement Between Secretary Carlisle and the President.

RELATIONS ENTIRELY FRIENDLY.

The President Emphatically Denies the "Entire Batch of Silly Misstatements," and Says He Is Not Formulating a Financial Scheme.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The attention of the president was called to the statement contained in certain newspapers to the effect that there had been a disagreement between him and Mr. Carlisle in regard to the issue of bonds and other matters, and intimating that such disagreement might result in the secretary's retirement from the cabinet.

The president emphatically denied the entire "batch of silly misstatements," and said: "Never since our association together has there been the slightest unpleasantness or difference concerning the affairs of the treasury department or any other matter. I have every reason to believe that his attachment to me is as sincere and as great as mine is for him."

"I should be much afflicted if anything should cause him to entertain the thought of giving up his position while he is doing so much for his country. We have agreed exactly as to the issue of bonds, and there has been no backwardness on his part on that subject. I see it is said that I am formulating a financial scheme. If such a scheme is presented it will be the work of the secretary of the treasury, and I shall endorse and support it."

"The trouble seems to be that those charged with the executive duties of the government do not appear willing at all times to take the councils of the newspapers, and make public all they intend to do."

Suing an Express Company.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—An amended complaint was filed in the United States circuit court in the suit of Malcolm Anderson and Roger W. Woodbury against Thomas C. Platt and the United States Express company. The plaintiffs had a sixty days option on a piece of mining property in Colorado called the Rialto. The necessary maps and other things for the proper transfer of the company were put in an envelope addressed to Malcolm Anderson, in this city, for execution. The package was lost in the transmission and was not recovered until the option expired. In consequence of this, it is claimed, the complainants lost $100,000 to be made on the option, and judgment for that amount is asked.

Mysterious Robbery of Jewels.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—The police are considerably puzzled over a robbery that occurred at the residence of Mrs. Harriet, northeast corner of Broad and Pine streets, several weeks ago, which has just been made public. There were no marks of violence on any of the doors or windows of the house to show in what manner the thief effected an entrance to the premises. The intruders succeeded in gathering valuable, consisting principally of rings valued in all at about $1,000. Several of the stolen articles are diamonds.

Colonists for Liberia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The White star line steamship Adriatic took in Liverpool, a party of twenty colored people bound for Liberia. This is a flying column from the army of 4,000 negroes that is said to be gathered in southern seaports awaiting means of deportation. This organization is under the management of Jerry McMillan, a white man living in Birmingham, Ala., and under the patronage of Bishop Turner, of the African M. E. church.

A Verdict After Nineteen Years.

READING, Pa., Nov. 15.—In a suit brought by William D. Sunday, administrator of Simon Dreibelbis, against the county of Berks, to recover $1,942 balance alleged to be due on a bridge contract, with interest for nineteen years, a verdict was rendered yesterday in favor of the county. This case had been pending in the courts of the county for nineteen years, and the entire claim, with interest, amounted to $4,200.

Contagion in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—Since Sunday scarlet fever and diphtheria have become epidemic here, and was declared so at the meeting of the civil health board yesterday. Seventeen cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria are known to exist in the Protestant Infants' home and twelve in the Foundlings' home. There have been five deaths. The Roman Catholic institutions have not yet been heard from.

German Salt Dutiable.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Attorney General Olney has decided, in response to a suit inquiry from Secretary Carlisle, that salt imported from Germany is dutiable under the new tariff law.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of Headache, Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influences. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters are given by the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it now. Large bottles only 50 cents each. McMonagle & Rogers drug store.

THE MISSOURI TRAIN ROBBERS.

They Secured Forty Watches and Over $500 in Cash from Passengers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—Missouri, Kansas and Texas train No. 12, which was held up near Muscogee Tuesday night, has arrived here. The two Wagner cars on the train look as if they had been through a battle. The bandits intimidated the passengers before entering the cars by firing a fusillade through the windows. The robbers secured over $500 in money and about forty watches and other articles of jewelry. The Wagner conductor and train conductor were relieved of a little over $40 each.

The express car was being guarded by four armed men when it was stopped, and they opened fire at once, driving the bandits back. The robbers consulted for a few moments and withdrew to the rear of the train. The train crew thought they were well rid of them, when the firing began on the wagons.

Wagner Car Conductor Murphy was given a gunny sack by the robbers and compelled to walk ahead of them. Two robbers followed behind with leveled guns. The passengers were required to divest themselves of money and jewelry and drop them into the sack. The robbers were rather lenient about it, not demanding a show down from any one, but appearing satisfied when the passengers appeared to have dropped the first roll he had his hands on. The Wagner passengers were all in their berths, and the cars were quite dark. The robbers wanted more light, and made Murphy do the talking necessary to convince the passengers that they had better give up. The passengers in the day coaches were not molested.

THE BRITISH COAST STORM.

Several wrecks reported and many lives undoubtedly lost.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A storm of unusual severity swept the British coast yesterday, and many fatalities are reported. An unknown two masted vessel was seen off Guernsey during the gale. She was apparently making bad weather of it. Suddenly she disappeared and it is supposed that she foundered, taking all her crew down with her. A Flushing pilot cutter was run down by a steamer and eight of the cutter's crew were drowned.

Further reports from the south and east of England add enormously to the loss of live stock and other property. Many small towns and villages are inundated. The inhabitants of all the low lying parts of these places were removed in boats to places of safety. The wrecking of seven small vessels is reported from along the east and south coasts.

A boat belonging to the London steamer Zetland has been washed ashore at Worthing, a town of Sussex. A corpse was in the boat, and from this it is supposed that the steamer has foundered.

Malher After O'Donnell.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—J. J. Quinn, banker of Peter Mather, yesterday posted $500 to bail Mather against Steve O'Donnell, the forced to remain up one month. Quinn said that, judging from Brady's conduct, he is afraid to chance any money on O'Donnell against Mather. "We may be after Corbett before we are through," said Quinn, "but at present we are content to show that Mather is able to defeat O'Donnell." Mather, or Brady was waited upon by a representative of Quinn's, who made known Mather's offer to fight O'Donnell. Brady in repoussé gave as his ultimatum that O'Donnell would not fight any one until Corbett had fought.

General Clay Guarding His Child Wife.

LIVERPOOL, Ky., Nov. 15.—White Hall, the castle of General Cassius M. Clay, is closed to all visitors, the general having placed his son Lennie in command with instructions to allow no one to disturb him. None of the neighbors dare venture on the premises in the face of these instructions. General Clay is fearful that some harm may come to his bride and will not allow her to leave the house. Dr. C. S. Smith carried away to Richmond on Tuesday some documents which give rise to the story that General Clay has made a new will.

Japanese Victories Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Japanese minister, Mr. Kurino, has received the following cable dispatch from Tokio: "Our army occupied Talleh-Wan on the 28th inst., having destroyed all the Chinese torpedoes. Our fleet transports and torpedo boats are anchoring in the bay. Torpedo station, with igniting equipments, charts of submarine torpedo and eighty cannons and telephone lines, had been captured."

Brigands Attack a Town.

ROME, Nov. 15.—A band of brigands numbering 100, acting in military order, attacked Tortoli, a town of 2,000 inhabitants in Sardinia. The gendarmes, assisted by townsmen, resisted desperately, but were overcome. Two gendarmes were killed and many persons were wounded. The brigands looted the town and decamped with their booty. Troops have been sent in pursuit of them.

Died from an Overdose of Laudanum.

SALISBURY, Nov. 15.—George W. Ellis died in Salisbury from the effects of an overdose of laudanum. He was a bricklayer, and a few weeks ago came near being killed by the collapse of the large nail of the Jackson Brother company. He leaves a wife and one child.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsville, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warrented the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills, Middletown, N. Y.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia; radiculitis in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

ANOTHER ELECTION MURDER.

Caused by a Jollification in Which Negroes Participated.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky., Nov. 15.—The first fruit of the Republican victory in this congressional district was the murder of Blake Robertson, 18 year-old son of the Hon. Thomas A. Robertson, formerly congressman from this district. Last night was the time for the Republican ratification, and about 200 negroes and a few white men gathered in the lower part of the town to form a procession. There was a dispute as to whether the whites or the blacks should march first and as a result nearly all the white Republicans declined to march behind, and only one white man, John Kerr, joined in the parade, which was headed by a negro brass band.

The negroes had been cautioned to use blank cartridges, but instead had their shells loaded. Marshal Neighbors started to make an investigation, and as he advanced on the crowd George Wilson fired at him, the load of shot tearing a hole in his coat and passing through lodged in the stomach of the young Robertson.

Neighbors then shot the negro in the arm. Robertson died yesterday. In Judge English's court Marshal Neighbors tried to kill Wilson, but was prevented from doing so. Wilson is in jail, and the negroes are greatly excited.

Murdered in a Court House.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 15.—Chancellor Allison, of this city, was shot and instantly killed in a corridor of the courthouse by George E. Whitworth, for six years past the clerk and master of the court. Whitworth then shot and wounded himself. Chancellor Allison's son, Granville Allison, was appointed a few days ago to succeed Whitworth as clerk. Whitworth's death is hourly expected. The cause of the shooting was Allison's failure to settle for a large sum due from him to Whitworth for money loaned, said to be about $25,000. The entire city was dumbfounded when the news was spread abroad that the chancellor had been killed by his clerk. Allison was about 52 years old, and had just begun his second term of eight years, having been re-elected in August last. Whitworth is about 42 years old.

Southern Forest Fires Prove Fatal.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 15.—The forest fires which are now raging in Arkansas and in parts of Shelly county caused the burning of three negro shanties near Millington, and probably the death of a negro woman named Fannie Wood. It is thought she will die. On Mrs. W. P. York's plantation, about four miles from Millington, a negro baby, the child of Pitt Rhea, was playing near the fire when her dress became ignited, and before anyone could reach her she was burned so badly that she died. It is reported that five bodies, thought to be those of a hunting party, have been found in the St. Francis Bottoms, opposite Memphis.

A Band of Outlaws Located.

SALINA, Kan., Nov. 14.—The express companies doing business in Kansas assisted by a number of bankers located in the border towns, have located a gang of outlaws in central Kansas. They rendezvous in the hills, and when pursued too closely in that neighborhood they run down in the Indian Territory until settlers settle down. There are thirty members of the band, and the robbery committed at Sylvan Grove, in Lincoln county, Monday, and the bold robbery at Tuscott last September were perpetrated by this gang of robbers. Who the leader is is not known, but detectives are now working on the case.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very sensitive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

NEW GERMAN CAPITOL.

The Great Structure Formally Dedicated Today,

THOUGH NOT FULLY COMPLETED.

1 Building Typical of the March of Germany in Science, Art and Architecture, the Total Cost of Which Will be About Sixty Million Marks.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The massive government building, the new reichstag structure, was formally opened today. It is by no means complete, but it is the young kaiser's earnest wish that the German parliament should hold its next session in the great hall designed for it, and thousands are therefore at work to see that his desire in the matter is at least made possible. There is fully another year's work within the building in the way of great decorations and the making and placing of the statuary designed to fill the thousand niches in the massive corridors of this monumental structure.

For twelve years the workmen have been busied on this building, which, with its graceful front, faces the famous green sward of the still more famous Tiergarten, and with its terraced rear looks down upon the bustle and turmoil of busy Berlin. It is an ideal location, selected as it was by the greatest of Germany's landscape artists. From its top, on which the imperial crown rests like a gem set in the sky, the view of the great city is entrancing. It towers even above the great column of Victory, which commemorates the result of the Franco-German war.

The statue of Germania holds the place of honor on the facade, and the friezes underneath it are adorned with the German arms and mythological figures telling the story of early Teutonic times. Underneath this is the dedicatory inscription: "To the German People." Its German letters form the words "Dem Deutschen Volke."

The ornamental work and the statuary which already adorn the outside of the structure are the work of a host of Germany's masters, among whom towers the sculptor of the Germania statue, Reinhold Vegerschutz. It was in 1889 that the reichstag first gave to the world the conception of this new structure. It seemed to be an impulse of the nation, and the German population showed in unmistakable ways that nothing would tend more to completely cement the German federation than a monumental structure which would belong to the nation and be typical of its unity, but of its great advance in science, art and architecture. It was to be a crowning event in the history of the new Germany, and this indeed it has proven to be. When on June 9, 1894, the old emperor, William I, laid the cornerstone, his impressive words, few as they were, breathed the noble spirit of patriotism, and were much in the nature of a prediction that the completion of the structure would find reunited Germany the strongest nation on the face of the earth.

Not until 1892 was the prize architectural competition decided. Hundreds of plans had been submitted by the greatest and the least, and it remained for a man practically unknown to even his own nation to win the great prize. It was to Paul Wallot that the honor was accorded. He was born at Oppenheim on the Rhine, was educated at Darmstadt, in the technological institutes of Berlin and Hanover, and later perfected himself in his art in the studios of Gropius, Lucas and Hitzig. He is not alone a great architect, but a talented landscape artist and a remarkably clever civil engineer.

In the first conception of the building the architect had designed the main hall directly under the great cupola, intending that it should be flooded with light. It was almost a whim of the old emperor that occasioned a change in the design so far as this idea was concerned.

At a gathering of all those interested the old emperor remarked that it would be very hard on Mr. Windholt, the great clerical leader, to climb the stairs to a great hall directly under the cupola. And so the plan was changed to conform in many respects to that of the government building of the United States, where congress meets in the wings.

The cost of the building will, when completed, reach, perhaps, 60,000,000 marks. This is exactly double the amount at first voted to carry out the colossal project. Had the original design for interior decoration and statuary been carried out, it is likely that the building would have cost over 100,000

Dated July 8th, 1894.

A LEADER OF THE 400

COMMODORE GERRY HAS A UNIQUE AND INTERESTING PERSONALITY.

He Has Many Friends and Is Particularly Interested In Yachting and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of Which He Is President.

Commodore Elbridge Thomas Gerry, who has recently figured in many heated controversies over the rights and wrongs of children, is a grandson of that Elbridge Gerry who signed the Declaration of Independence, was governor of Massachusetts and invented the justly celebrated "gerrymander." He laid off a congressional district so as to include in it all the strong Federalist sections, and as it bore a ludicrous resemblance to a salamander the wits of that day combined the words and gave us a title only too familiar in these days.

The family has always been hard headed and strong of will, and Governor Gerry's father was a truly obstinate Englishman who came over to Marblehead as a merchant and was a noted man there from the start.

He got rich, however, and the family has been growing richer ever since. The present Gerry inherited millions and married millions more, taking one of the richest ladies of the famous Livingston family. In New York he is popularly rated at $20,000,000 and pays over $100,000 taxes yearly on his real estate.

His favorite diversion is in his famous steam yacht, which cost over $100,000, and he got his title by being elected commodore of the New York Yacht Club. He is a devout Episcopalian and a lawyer, but does not work at it much and devotes most of his activities to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of which he has been president since 1870. He began this work as counsel for the Aid society in 1870 and was chief founder of the new society in 1874.

He was born in New York city on Christmas day, 1837, and few men of his age are so vigorous. Since he took charge of it the society has taken over 31,000 children out of the slums or away from cruel parents and guardians and furnished them with good homes, has prosecuted about 1,000 men and women for mistreating children and convicted many. Little tots who could scarcely toddle on their emaciated legs were taken from the streets, where their worthless parents had driven them to beg, peddle or sell newspapers, and thousands of these are now healthy, happy and well to do young men and women. But he has had great trouble with bigots, as every man must who takes any reform in the slums of New York. Again and again he has found that they were bribed or badly influenced in other ways. Then there would be an explosion, a general reconstruction and a new start.

So far the general public was with him, but when he sought to prevent children from appearing on the stage there was a great difference of opinion. He succeeded in securing the passage of a law prohibiting children from singing or dancing in public unless with the approval of the society. This made him a veritable censor of the stage, and a great fight there has been about it. Many a child which was to sing a song or do a little dance in public had to first go through a rehearsal where the commodore was all the audience, and in many cases he has put a veto on the performance. The mayor has often opposed him, and the police have been unfriendly, but his voice is final. In 1888 he caused Mayor Jewett to revoke the license of Josef H. Lippman, the 11-year-old pianist, and in consequence of his action made sweeping charges against the drama generally.

He said that a law legalizing child acting would be a law for the destruction of morals and incidentally added that New York city contained 9,000 saloons and 25,000 women of dissolute lives. Then there was a storm. Good judges think, however, that he proved his case. When, however, he carried this with a broadside to the effect that the American people are deteriorating and that the public schools in cities are largely the cause of it, he once more had the good people to contend with. He stood up strenuously for his view, but explained that the trouble was that the schools were controlled by a political machine, and that the only remedy was to go back to the time honored custom of teaching religion in them.

The commodore is one of the central figures of the inner ring of the Four Hundred, which is said to contain but 15 families, the Livingstons at the head. The five requisites are descent from a famous colonial or Revolutionary family, inherited wealth, culture, intellect and an unbroken family record for honesty, patriotism and morality. The Gerrs have had this record for 164 years and the Livingstons for 220 years in America and 120 years before that in Scotland, and as the commodore married a Lillian, often his beautiful daughter and only child is properly ranked as princess royal of the Four Hundred.

COTTOLENEPoor Pie

is responsible for many of man's (and woman's) physical woes—but the pie needn't be poor, and it may bring joy instead of woe. How? Use nothing but COTTOLENE for shortening and the pie crust will be delicate, flaky, delicious, and so healthful that even a dyspeptic can eat freely of it and be comfortable. COTTOLENE can't be equalled as a shortening, and is absolutely healthful. Genuine has this trade mark on every pail. Take no other.

GERMANY'S NEW CHANCELLOR.

He Is Almost as Old as Bismarck Was When That Great Statesman Resigned.

Prince Clodwig von Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurz, the new German chancellor, who succeeds General von Caprivi, is 75 years of age and has filled many important diplomatic positions in Bavaria and the empire. He is rather well along in years to bear the difficult burden the Kaiser has placed upon his shoulders, but Bismarck was 76 when he resigned the chancellorship owing to differences with the young emperor, and Prince Hohenlohe is as vigorous at 75 as Bismarck was. From early manhood honors have come easily to the new chancellor. When but 27 years of age, he became a hereditary member of the Bavarian parliament upon the death of his brother Philip and succeeded to the old family estate of Schillingsfurz. He had held a small office under the Prussian government, but he resigned and again made Bavaria his residence. The Bavarian ministry sent him as ambassador to Athens, Florence and Rome, and his diplomatic career was well begun before he was 30.

In 1849 he married the Princess Seyn-Witgenstein, and of their five children Philip Ernest, the eldest, is 31 years of age and a cavalry captain in the Prussian army. In 1860 after a ten years' retirement to private life, Prince Hohenlohe again entered upon a parliamentary career, favoring the Bohenzollern programme of a German zollverein, and in 1867 he succeeded Pfotenhauer as Bavarian minister. When France threatened war against Prussia in 1870, he attracted considerable attention by insisting that Bavaria join in the great German movement and assist in fighting the French. In 1871 he was elected a member of the first German reichstag, of which body he at length became vice president. After the scandal that resulted in the recall of Count Armin in 1874 he was sent as ambassador to France, and while in Paris he did much to bring about a better feeling.

After the death of Marshal Manteuffel in 1885 he was appointed governor of Alsace-Lorraine, the provinces wrested from France in her hour of defeat. He was untiring in his efforts to Germanize these provinces, and the strict passport system, designed to suppress relations between France and Alsace-Lorraine, was rigidly enforced during his regime. In religion the new chancellor is a Catholic.

THE WIFE OF "MAX O'RELL."

Mme. Blouet Translates Her Husband's Books and Is Indeed a Helpmate.

Mme. Paul Blouet, the wife of the witty Frenchman, "Max O'Rell," who will soon begin his fourth lecture tour in America, is justly entitled to a large share of the credit of her husband's great success in literature and on the lecture platform. She looks like a typical Frenchwoman, but despite this fact she is an English girl, born and bred, and her maiden name was Mary Bartlett. Her father was a well to do shipowner in Devonshire, and very fortunately for her and for the then unknown husband to be, who was coming to her from across the channel, Miss Mary received an excellent education in London and left school with a very thorough knowledge of the French language.

She was 20 years of age when she first met Paul Blouet at the home of some friends in London. Blouet was then unknown, but he had been severely wounded while fighting for France during the commune and had left the French army because of his injuries. His only income was a small pension, which was augmented by the small sum he made as

LONDON correspondent of an unimportant Paris journal. The English girl and the young Frenchman were strongly attracted to each other from their very first meeting, and friendship speedily ripened into love. After a year's courtship they were married Dec. 26, 1874.

Mme. Blouet very sensibly continued her studies in French, her husband always spoke to her in that language, and the young wife soon became so proficient that when her husband's first book, "John Bull and His Island," evoked a roar of laughter in France she added very materially to its success by translating it into English. In its English form the book was an immense success in Great Britain and the United States and led Max O'Rell to write other books and lectures. Mme. Blouet has since translated into English every book that has come from her husband's pen but one. She is a model housekeeper, and her much lionized husband prefers home to any other place on earth. They have one child, a daughter, who is now about 19 years of age. Her name is Leonie Marie Blouet, and she and her mother are more like sisters than mother and daughter.

bring different methods. The big, bulky pills such as our grandfathers had to put up won't do to-day. Medical science has gone beyond them. It has given us something better—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, tiny as mustard seeds, but more effective than anything you can take. That's because their methods are more natural. They have a peculiar strengthening or tonic effect on the lining membranes of the intestines, which gives a permanent cure. They prevent, relieve, and put an end to Biliousness, Constipation, Jaundice, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Sick or Bilious Headaches, Indigestion, and every like disorder.

"Incurable" cases of Catarrh are cured, perfectly and permanently, by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The makers of this medicine guarantee it to be of benefit or cure, or money refunded. By all dealers in medicines.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without troubling them and it is perfectly free from very objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Hold for the Murder of Hasson.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—The brutal murder of John Edward Hasson, the young soldier who was fatally beaten on Saturday night last on Germantown avenue, was investigated by Deputy Coroner Doig and at the close of the hearing James L. Walls, of Fern Rock, and Alexander Thompson, of North Third street, were committed to Moyamensing prison, the first as principal and the second as accessory, until the grand jury passes upon their responsibility for the crime.

Working with Non-Unionists.

MCKERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 15.—One furnace is running today at the United States Tin Plate works. Manager Cronenberry says the company's program is being carried out, but gives no intimation when any more of the works will resume. Not over twenty five non-union men are at work. A few of the old hands are back, and half a dozen deputy sheriffs are on duty. There has so far been no trouble.

A Land Quarrel Leads to Probable Murder.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Nov. 15.—Charles Gillespie was shot and fatally wounded near this city by Jay Morgan. Both men were wealthy farmers. They had had a quarrel over the rental of some land, and Morgan called Gillespie to the door, and without warning fired both barrels of his shotgun at him.

Pursued by Bloodhounds.

The Knights of Labor.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—The late arrival of the delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, at its convention at Scriveners' hall, has swelled the number to 100, and it is the largest meeting held by the order for several years.
Terence V. Powderly arrived today. It is expected the election of officers will take place this afternoon. Sovereign, it is claimed, will be his own successor.

After Alabama Lynchers.

CULLMAN, Ala., Nov. 15.—John and Monroe Evans were lynched in this country in 1881, and the governor offered reward for the lynchers. Twelve men accused of complicity in the crime have just been arrested and are in jail here. Many others are yet to be arrested. One of the county commissioners is among the accused and is also in jail. The evidence is said to be strong against all of them.

A Boy's Fatal Carelessness.

SING SING, N. Y., Nov. 15.—John Washburn, 10-year-old boy, accidentally discharged a gun in the store of Captain A.
Jones. The charge struck a keg of powder, causing an explosion which killed the boy and wounded several employees in the store quite seriously. The building was completely wrecked.

Nick Young Still Head, the League.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The National League baseball convention confirmed the appointment of Nick Young as president, secretary and treasurer of the league.
There was a general discussion of the proposed new association and it was the general opinion that it would not materialize.

Union Veterans in North Carolina.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A delegation of forty-five Union veterans from Connecticut arrived here to participate in the unveiling of the monument to the Union soldiers buried here. The memorials at the top of Confederate terms and citizens will save them a cornerstone. The address of the local was made by a Confederate General, Colonel Pratt, of Connecticut. A bouquet was given to visitors last night at the Hotel Chatfield.

An Old Church Rededicated.

SATURDAY, Nov. 15.—The oldest Protestant church in Anoka, Old St.
Luke's Episcopal, formal services were held yesterday. The church was dedicated in 1850, but was in constant use until 1857, and was not entirely abandoned until the word of restoration began five years ago.

Soon Followed His Father.

SUSQUAHANNA, Pa., Nov. 15.—Albert F.
Wright, son of the late Congressman M.
B. Wright, died yesterday afternoon. He was 16 years old. Congressman Wright who was representative from the Fifteenth district died at Trenton, Canada, Monday night.

Expenses of the Earl's Illness.

VIRGINIA, Nov. 15.—The papers here state that including the $60,000 roubles divided among the doctors, the earl's illness and journey to Ladiada cost 100,000 roubles.

An English Paper for Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—Boston and New York capitalists have furnished the funds to start a newspaper here, to be published in English, and a press agency to operate in Mexico, Central and South America. The new enterprise is expected to begin Jan. 1.

Chinese Refugees Shot Down.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A Chinese dispute to the Times says that thousands of refugees who were fleeing from Kinchow were mistaken for the enemy by the Chinese troops and were fired upon. Hundreds of them were killed.

A GOOD INDICATION:

Medical practitioners of prominence are prescribing for the cure of diseases springing from derangement of the digestive organs, Dr.
David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.
This professional endorsement is justified by the fact that no other preparation has been found so efficacious in that class of disorders, even in the most advanced and severe cases. It has cured gravel in the kidneys, stone in the bladder and inflammation of the kidneys, where all other medicines had failed. It can be purchased of any druggist. A book is wrapped about each bottle explaining its use in the different diseases.

—Frank McHugh, a well known character of this vicinity, died in St.
Joseph's Hospital, in Paterson, Saturday. The family was notified by telegraph, Sunday, and his youngest son, William, went Monday, to care for the body. Mr. McHugh was about sixty years old. He was a harmless fellow but was a slave to drink. He was a blacksmith by trade, and conducted a shop at Scott's Corners, about a mile east of here on the turnpike. He was a first class horse-shoer, and many people came miles to have their horses shod by him, even Kingston horsemen having been known to come to his shop.
He went to the hospital Saturday,
the day on which he died.

Last Tributes to Alexander.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—Throughout the whole day, with the exception of the time the members of the imperial family were attending religious services in the cathedral, there was an unceasing flow of people through the cathedral who were desirous of taking a last look at the face of the dead czar. The procession defiled before the bier, upon which the body is lying in state.
Around the bier stood a number of lighted candles.

Three Mine Boilers Explode.

HAZELTON, Pa., Nov. 15.—Three boilers exploded at Stockton colliery with terrible force. Mike Keesa and John Hudak, firemen, were seriously, if not fatally injured.
The boiler house and an adjoining building were blown to pieces. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

Mill Workers' Wages Reduced.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 15.—The wages of the employees of Munson's Planing mill were reduced yesterday on a scale of from ten to fifty cents a day. The same company also made a reduction in the Michigan mills.

CULTURE IN CHICAGO.

A Trifling Mistake Has Made Things Unpleasant for a Noted Author.

When the president of that exclusive literary organization, the Twentieth Century Club, introduced Dr. A. Conan
Doyle to a Chicago audience Friday evening, he committed an error which is likely to give rise to serious complications and to involve Dr. Doyle in embarrassment. Dr. Doyle is not a theologian—at any rate, not a professional theologian. He must have been startled when the Hon. George E. Adams announced him as Canon Doyle. Presumably many of the cultured men and women who were present at the Twentieth Century Club reception take it for granted, upon the authority of the club's president, Mr. Adams, that Dr. Doyle is a canon, an associate perhaps of Canon Farrar, and high in the councils of the augustin church of England. We hear it rumored that Mr. Higinbotham, president of our late ever glorious and ever lamented World's fair, has not yet disabused his mind of the serious error arising from Mr. Adams' blunder; that he addresses Dr. Doyle as Father Doyle, and that at luncheon yesterday he said to his distinguished guest, "Will your reverence ask the blessing?"

We don't know how true it is, but we understand that Dr. Doyle has been invited to "fill the pulpit" in a number of our churches, and that he is besieged with letters addressed variously
"Rev. Dr. Doyle," "Rev. Canon Doyle,"
"The Very Rev. Canon Doyle," etc.
Altogether much confusion has been precipitated by the little slip made simply in carelessness by the president of the Twentieth Century Club. We think it incumbent upon that leading literary organization of the west to set about correcting the error its executive has innocently sprung upon the public and upon a very distinguished visitor.—

THURSDAY, NOV. 15, 1894.

Senator Hill died his statement of election expenses, yesterday. His campaign cost him $3,053.50, expended as follows: Democratic State Committee $2,500; transportation $150, type writing $13.50; personal expenses for self and secretary on trips through State $335; postage and telegrams $55.

A new and very important discovery in medical science is announced—the isolation of the specific bacterium of cowpox. It is expected that hereafter pure cultures from the germ will be used in vaccination instead of the lymph obtained from calves inoculated with cowpox, thus eliminating all possibility of communicating other diseases in the operation of vaccination and removing the cause of a great deal of opposition to vaccination.

Frederick C. Waite, formerly a Special Census Agent, has been carefully studying and analyzing the returns of the recent elections and asserts that the Democratic party was defeated by 5,000,000 stay-at-home votes. In no State was the Republican vote, last week, as large as it was 1888 and only legitimate inference is that dislocated Democratic workingmen defeated their party, this year, by refusing to vote, as discontented Republican farmers defeated their party in 1892. Mr. Waite says: The stay-at-home vote has increased in New York from 75,000 in 1888, to 185,000 in 1892, and 405,000 this year; in Pennsylvania, from 70,000 in 1888, to 220,000 in 1892, and 400,000, this year. It has increased in Ohio from 40,000 in 1888, to 115,000 in 1892, and 200,000 this year; in Michigan from 20,000 in 1888, to 105,000 in 1892, and 240,000 in 1893 and 1894. In other States the same proportion holds. It is the stay-at-home party which has made such phenomenal gains. The immense Republican pluralities, this year, are not the result of an extraordinary Republican vote, but of an exceedingly small Democratic vote.

DEATH DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES.
The Doctors So Decide in the Case of Mrs. Bard; Lyon—The Fracture of the Skull an Old One—Evidences of Kidney Disease Found—The Woman's Husband Brought to Town but Not Arrested.

A teria-careful and exhaustive autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Henrietta Hardy-Lyon, the physicians who performed the same have decided that the woman came to her death from natural causes. The fracture which was found in her skull proved to be an old one, and the brain, heart and lungs were all in a normal condition. An examination of the kidneys showed sufficient evidences of nephritis to have caused death.

Coroner Decker, accompanied by Constable Faulkner, visited the Lyon home at "The Vacant," yesterday afternoon. All of the members of the household were closely questioned but the examination failed to throw any light upon the cause of the woman's death, beyond the fact that she was found dead in bed as stated by Mr. Lyon.

Two young children slept up on the floor of the room in which Mrs. Lyon died. "Lew" Brown, of this city, a wood-cutter who boarded with the family, slept in an adjoining room and none of the members of the household heard any unusual noises, until awakened by Mr. Lyon who informed them that his wife was dead.

All of the inmates of the house agreed that there was no ill feeling between husband and wife and that their lives appeared to be very happy.

The coroner left this city before the physicians had concluded the autopsy and was of course, under the impression that the fracture of the skull was a recent one.

He did not inform Mr. Lyon of the proceedings which were in progress in this city, but in questioning the children he learned that Mrs. Lyon had sustained a fracture of the skull several years ago, by falling and striking her head against an iron pump-handle.

There was absolutely nothing to be learned at the Lyon home, but Mr. Lyon was induced to accompany the party to this city, to attend the funeral of his wife. He was placed under the surveillance of Constable Faulkner, until the Coroner learned the result of the autopsy, when all proceedings were abandoned.

Deserving of Credit.
Undertaker John Donovan deserves credit for his refusal to bury the remains of Mrs. Lyon on Dr. Wallace's certificate after learning the facts, and especially in view of the heartless conduct of the woman's husband, which of itself was sufficient to arouse suspicion. He did exactly the right thing in turning the case over to the coroner.

A FAMILY RE-UNION.

Mr. Edward Minshall Celebrates His Sixty-Eighth Anniversary.

Mr. Edward Minshall, one of Middletown's most respected citizens, celebrated the sixty eighth anniversary of his birth, last evening. It has been the custom in his family for years to have a family re-union on his birthday, and this custom was observed, yesterday, when all his children and grandchildren were present.

The children in this city are Philip, who resides on Low avenue, and Frank at home. Those from out of town were Thomas, of Coeymans; George and Mrs. Burt Hasbrouck, of Montclair, and James, of Oafidwell, N. J. Mr. Thomas Walker, of Oswego, who although not a member of the family has attended these reunions for twenty years, was also present, last evening.

Fifteen persons in all sat down to a fine supper prepared under Mrs. Minshall's directions.

Mr. Minshall we are pleased to note is enjoying good health and is very active for one of his years. His many friends will join with us in the wish that he may live to celebrate many more anniversaries of his birth.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY MATTERS.

The Company's Office to Be Removed to Low Avenue—Progress of Work on the Goshen Line—Additional Men Put On.

Work on the addition to the Tracton Company's plant on Low avenue is progressing rapidly and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving.

Most of the new building will be used for storing cars, but two rooms will be fitted up in a portion of the building, one for the company's office, which will be removed from the Low Building, and the other for the use of the conductors and motormen.

Fifty additional men have been put to work on the Goshen line, this week, and very rapid progress is being made. An additional construction car is also in use on the line. Yesterday one of the construction trains ran to the culvert, near the Owen house, for the first time.

If such weather as we are now having continues for a few days, cars will soon be running to Goshen.

ORANGE COUNTY'S OFFICIAL VOTE

The Board of Canvassers Completes Its Work—Total Votes and Pluralities.

GOSHEN, Nov. 14.—The Board of Canvassers met, this morning, at 11 o'clock. The returns sent back for correction were laid before the Board and Messrs. Fredericks, Wells and Bradley were appointed a committee to foot up the vote. The Board then took a recess until 2 p.m.

When the Board re-convened, Clerk Elliott read the result of the vote in this county and on motion of Supervisor Crawford the canvass as read was declared to be the canvass of this Board. It was resolved that the Walden Citizen and the Independent Republican be the papers authorized by the Board to publish the canvass.

The following is the official vote of the county:

The whole number of votes cast was 21,407.

JURY FAILED TO AGREE

SPENT THE NIGHT CONSIDERING

MRS. KREMPF'S DAMAGE SUIT.

Several witnesses testified for the defense—Dr. Hamilton, the New York Expert, Believes the Woman is Shamming—The Judge Charge Not Favorable to the Plaintiff.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Anna Bell Krempf against the Metropolitan Traction Company, after being locked up all night, came into court, this morning, announced that they were unable to agree upon a verdict and were discharged. It is reported the jury stood six for a verdict for plaintiff and five against.

The following account of yesterday's proceedings in this case is from the Newburgh Journal:

The suit for damages brought by Anna Belle Krempf, against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, was resumed, this morning. The defense called their witnesses and evidence of a startling nature was deduced. The court room was thronged with spectators, and every detail was watched with almost breathless interest.

Mrs. Georgiana Webb, of Central Valley, was the first witness, this morning. Judge Hirschberg opened the examination. The witness testified that when the party, she and her husband and children and Mrs. Krempf, left the Erie Railway ferry boat the cars were standing upon the tracks. She and her husband and children got aboard the car all right.

Mrs. Krempf followed, getting on the car at the south side. When she came on the car there was nothing to indicate that she had met with an accident. She said: "This came near being a case for a suit," but she did not tell what had happened. "We rode across town and boarded a bridge car. There was no indication of pain. On the bridge car there was only one seat. I took that and Mrs. Krempf stood up, holding on to the strap. When we reached the other end of the bridge, Mrs. Krempf left us, expressing thanks for having been allowed to accompany us. I have not seen her since, until yesterday."

In answer to a question concerning the boarding of the car at the ferry, the witness said the car was not started, then stopped, and started again. There was no stop and the conductor did not get off and help Mrs. Krempf aboard. When the woman left witness there was no mud on her cape. "Mrs. Krempf and I were not acquainted at that time."

SADIE DOLSON'S INTERESTING TALE.

Sadie Dolson was called as a witness. She has known Mrs. Krempf for several years. "I had a friend, Miss Nellie, living there. I used to visit there every Saturday evening, spending the night and Sunday, and sometimes Sunday night. One week after Mrs. Krempf had been in Brooklyn I went there to see my sister, Mrs. Buck-Dolson. Mrs. Krempf said nothing about feeling badly.

The next Monday we were there. Then she said she had been hurt. She seemed to be just as lively as ever. The next week I was there. She seemed just as well as ever. Never saw her in bed, sick. Mr. A. Cox and Mrs. Decker were at the house several times when I was there. I never saw Mr. Sweetland, of Dockstader's Minstrels, there." In response to questions by Col. Dickey, witness stated that she lives at Goshen with a sister, Mrs. Doloway, her home previously having been at Warwick. She knows the detective Julian. The latter had taken her out driving several times and had taken her to New York a couple of times. While in New York they visited the office of Mr. Robinson [one of the attorneys for the street railway]. Incidentally the witness said: "Mr. Julian is a very nice gentleman. He has treated me with perfect respect and courtesy."

NOT ALLOWED TO TESTIFY.

Dr. Fred A. Carpenter, now of New York city, testified. He was city physician in Middletown, and chairman of the Board of Health. So many objections were offered by the respective counsel that this witness was not allowed to give scarcely a bit of testimony.

MAGGIE NOLAN'S STORY.

Maggie Nolan testified she saw no indication that Mrs. Krempf was suffering. "I was at her house eight weeks. During that time she did all the cooking and helped me do the washing. I never saw her limp while in the house. Mrs. Krempf received a note informing her that detectives were watching. Then lace curtains and flowers were put at the windows. Mr. Cox, Mr. Sweetman and Mr. Livingston came there constantly. The latter two while on a vacation spent a week there. Mrs. Krempf used to do a dance that is given in Dockstader's. She used to jig with me. And after that she would go out into the yard and limp. I would say 'What a break,' and she would laugh." Mrs. Krempf had witness arrested once. "This was after I had left her place and had made a statement in New York concerning the case. The Recorder of Middletown dismissed the case and told me that I ought to keep away from such people."

A NEXT DOOR NEIGHBOR TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Arthur Reagan testified. She lives next to Mrs. Krempf; she never knew Mrs. Krempf to be til the case came up. Before that she knew her under a different name. She was in the hospital for a while, and before she went away she never noticed Mrs. Krempf's absence from the yard, at the time. "After I returned from the hospital I had a talk with her. She asked me if I thought her house was going to be 'pulled.' She ran after some clothes prop of mine and explained that she was afraid a detective would catch her. She was not lame. She told witness that she had broken her engagement with her intended husband. I asked her why she did not get married on the sly and let the law years fight the case. She explained that the railway company would search the records and would say that if she could get married she could not be badly hurt. She was wearing her corsets at that time. Only one day in Middletown and yesterday have I seen Mrs. Krempf limp. Detective Julian occupied a room at my house for seven or eight weeks at $10 a week."

Mrs. Jennie Yeager, another next door neighbor, testified.

At 2 o'clock the court resumed.

THINKS PLAINTIFF IS SHAMMING.

Dr. Allan McLean Hamilton, of New York city, was upon the stand.

He stated that no symptoms have been described in this case that he would consider of any importance whatever. He has noticed the conduct of Mrs. Krempf. This noon he observed that she was making an ostentatious display of the alleged lameness. The symptoms as described would not in any way indicate spinal difficulty. The symptoms do not fit in as given. The witness contradicted Dr. Pillsbury's opinion.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

The Vocal Society Banquet—A Pleasant Tea.

(From a Special Correspondent)

About one hundred and fifty guests partook of the hospitality of the Goshen Vocal Society, on Monday evening, at Music Hall. The tables, four in number, were laid in the main body of the hall and were tastefully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. From the upper of these tables beamed the genial faces of the patrons and patronesses while "below the salt" sat the active and associate members and their friends. The menu was as follows:

Huitres en Cognac. Poulet à l'Inde. Canneberges. Pommes de Terre. Amandes, à la Praline. Olives. Crème, à la glace. Gâteaux. Fruits. Crème.

Shortly after the guests were seated a contented expression might have been seen stealing over the faces of all present except those of a select few to whom the Indian fowl mentioned in the menu, was some time in making its way, but even these finally found truth in the proverb, "all things come to him who waits patiently," and the satisfaction ere long became unanimous.

After the conclusion of the banquet, Prof. Tracy responded to the toast,

"The Goshen Vocal Society," after which he introduced the Rev. Dr. Robinson, of Middletown, who, in happy vein, gave his views of "Moses in Middletown." He was succeeded in turn by Mr. Chas. G. Elliott. In behalf of the patrons, Dr. F. S. Seward, of the associate members, Mr. T. D. Schoonmaker, concerning church choirs, Dr. Thompson, apropos of "The Art of Music," Mr. H. C. Duryea of his impressions of the village of Goshen and Mr. Wm. Wyker of his knowledge of the Goshen Band. These after dinner remarks were pleasantly varied by vocal solos, rendered by Miss Bertha Harmon, Miss Fielding Roselle and Mr. Halfpenny, of New York. Mr. Clark was next called upon to address the guests, which he did with his usual eloquence. Among other matters he mentioned that the trustees of the Presbyterian Church had kindly consented that their place of worship should be used on the evening of the 27th of December for the production of "The Messiah," and that it was hoped that on that occasion they could extend a free invitation to all the village people to attend this performance, which will be done if their financial condition makes it possible. In conclusion Miss Harmon and Miss Roselle sang a duet, after which in the "wee sma" hours beyond the twal," the guests departed to their homes. Among those who were present from out of town were Rev. Dr. Robinson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Iseman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sweezy, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Werley and Mrs. Mary Andrus, of Middletown; and Mr. and Miss Chamberlain and Miss Howland, of Chester.

Miss Vorhees gave a very pretty "studio tea" at her rooms in the Houghtaling house, on Main street, last Saturday afternoon. In the studio were displayed some beautifully decorated china and some very fine specimens of crayon drawing, the work of herself and pupils.

A CHILD ENJOYS.

Dr. W. Stanton Gleason, of this city, testified. Judge Hirschberg began the examination of the witness. Witness heard all of the evidence offered by the plaintiff and by Dr. Pillsbury. He had observed the witness with the special view of forming an opinion regarding Mrs. Krempf's condition of health. The woman seemed to be in a good condition of health. There is nothing to indicate disease. She is hearty, robust, with a good fair amount of nervous activity, indicating good health. The symptoms as described by Dr. Pillsbury when grouped would not indicate the condition claimed. The walk, for instance, did not indicate anything. It seemed to be a mere stiffening of the leg. I could not say that it relates to such a trouble as claimed. If Mrs. Krempf had sustained the injuries she claims it would have been impossible for her to go upon the Brooklyn Bridge car and stand up holding fast to a strap without manifesting to everybody in the car that she was suffering intense agony. The next day she would have been in bed, prostrated. The tests mentioned by Dr. Pillsbury as having been applied in this case have very little bearing. For a woman like Mrs. Krempf to merely fail to sit in a sitting position in the mud would not be sufficient to produce spinal disease. "From my observation of the woman in the court room and the testimony of the physicians I do not believe she is suffering from the effects of such an accident." Colonel Dickey questioned the witness. He brought out the fact that during the year Dr. Gleason attended Police Officer Connygham, who had a rib broken in a scuffle with a prisoner.

The Human Electrical.

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus applying the latter with the vital force necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of all the nerves, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As far as is known by the cut, the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels, the pneumogastric nerve, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain nerves fail, as they do in many disorders, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs supplied are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the valuable and need food, is prepared on the principles of the nervous system, and many other difficulties originate from disorders in the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, etc., neural debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opium or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

THE POET'S MUSE.

Ere you dawned upon my vision,
With your "faire orb divine,"
In the mists and groves of yon,
I conorted with "the nine,"
Underneath the supple hickory,
In the woodland would I wro,
Clio or the gay Terpsichore
Or the sweet Erato sue.

Then Calypso upon me
Cast the gimmer of her look,
Or was it Ulysses won me
With her accents like a brook?
Grecian or gay, my heart elastic
Seemed as e'en beguiled my view.
But it's ceasur to be so plastic
Since I put my eyes on you.

Not to marble to the tender
Protestations that you hear,
Let a "yes" in soft surrender
Fall upon the poet's ear.
It is modesty that smothers,
How a "no" my breast would bruise!
I'll go back on all the others
If you'll only be my muse.

A COQUETTE.

"I cannot marry my cousin," said Albert to his grandmother. "It is impossible. I know the pain I give you in making this declaration, but nevertheless if you wish Therese and I to be happy you will not insist. You know Therese, too much of a coquette just now to be marriageable! She is 20 years old. I am 25. We can both afford to wait."

"Once you have married her she will reform."

"I fear otherwise. Therese is a coquette. She will always be a coquette. Marriage will only stimulate her coquettish instinct."

"But she is in love with you, and you are in love with her, are you not? Each of you has confided in me. Love will bring more wisdom to her."

"With love on one side and the desire to flirt on the other," said Albert. "With love and the desire to be well dressed and to appear fascinating and bewitching. I think no woman can resist."

"What have you against her?" insisted her grandmother.

"What have I against her? Caprice! Love of display! Love of fine dresses, adornment. Love of adulation and flattery, which give me a cold shudder down the back."

"You are too jealous!"

"Say rather too reasonable. Now that I'm a full fledged lawyer I have begun life in earnest. I have learned in my profession to know traits of human nature that I cannot now mistake. I have learned the secrets of seductions and betrayals, and there is nothing like the misfortunes of others to teach one to be on one's guard. Therefore I will not marry my cousin. I will wait awhile. Later, when she has been proved, and when I know that she loves me as I wish to be loved, then I shall make up my mind, but not before."

"What test do you ask for?" demanded the grandmother.

"That is my secret. Do not ask me any more questions."

It was the eve of a ball where he was to meet Therese that Albert had this conversation with Mme. de Versac.

Therese was an orphan. She lived with her grandmother and was adored by her. She was spoiled by her and had her own way in everything. A wish was a command, and everybody gave in to her.

She was decidedly pretty, with superb coloring, large, speaking eyes, rosy cheeks and fine features. Her figure was that of a Greek statue.

She had been on the watch during the conversation and waited till her cousin had left. Then she came in to her grandmother, humoring airs from the opera, and spread out on the old lady's lap a mass of red roses she had bought earlier in the afternoon at the florist's.

"You will not refuse me, grandmother?" she said. "We are to go to hear 'Thais' this week at the opera. Tomorrow, with Leonide, my companion, I am going down to the Boulevard Haussmann to try on my new dress."

"You won't forget the ball the day after tomorrow?"

"Certainly not. On the contrary, I have been thinking of it a great deal and have a surprise in store for you. I shall look so pretty that you will not recognize your little Therese."

"Some new little coquette?"

"Exactly. Some new little coquette," replied Therese lightly, "and why not? It belongs to my age, in keeping with my position, and almost a part of my education. Am I to have only one dress, only one way of doing my hair, only one sort of jewelry to wear? What would you think of me if I were like that?"

"Oh! I always make excuses for you. I am on your side. But—but how about others, for there are others? How about Albert, for instance?"

"Albert! He loves me. He should think all I do good and beautiful."

"Are you sure of that?"

"Why should I blame a flirt? It is not for me to make sacrifices for him. He is paying court to me, and paying court to a girl involves letting her have her own way in all things. It plays his part. I play mine. I am a flirt and shall always remain one. But wait till the day after tomorrow and see if you are not proud of me!"

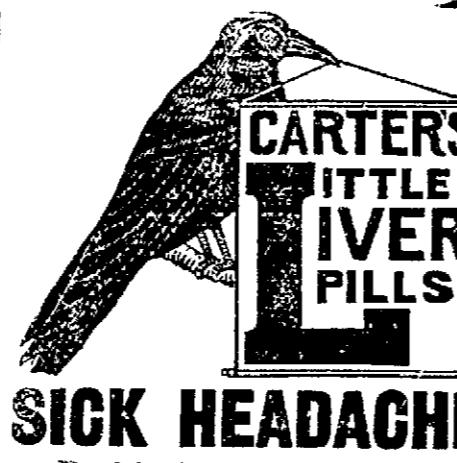

"Be careful," returned the grandmother; "this coquette will ruin you."

On the day of the ball just at the hour when the festivities were to begin a young girl in a lovely white dress and golden hair walked with Leonide into the grandmother's room.

A mass of roses nodded their heads gracefully at her waist, and the whiteness of her matchless shoulders was so pure that it almost reflected the golden shimmer of her hair.

The young face was all smiles and happiness, and the light of frivolity and coquetry flashed from the large, veiled eyes.

Mme. de Versac, lost in amazement, advanced to greet her pretty visitor with

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulence. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

D. G. COOKE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

HIS FATE.

How a Mole on a Beautiful Face Led to a Doctor's Downfall.

Mustapha approached the carpet of justice, dragging with him a man with a look of solemn and impossible wisdom, like that worn by cowards, jockasses and some others of them... kingdom. With them came a woman attired in mourning garments and from whose eyes the tears were streaming.

"What is the matter here, Mustapha?" inquired the cadi.

"This woman saith that she hath been grievously wronged by this doctor," replied Mustapha.

"Let us hear your tale, woman," said the cadi. "Allah Kebur—God is great—and justice shall be done."

"Know, O source of all wisdom, that I have a daughter who was beautiful as an hour in paradise, save that she had a mole on her left cheek. This doctor said that for 5 shillings he would remove the mole, and that her cheek would remain as the skin of the peach, soft and rosy. I procured the 5 shillings for him, and he put some fluid on the mole which caused a burning and an inflammation that afterward enlarged and burst, so that now my daughter is left hideous as the mother of Shitán."

"Be慈悲—on my eyes be it! Is this true, man of pills and powders?"

"It is, O lord of mercy. But I did not know that this would happen, and I am ready to give back to the woman her 5 shillings."

"You did not know? Now, by the sacred sandwich that the prophet ate at Aden, how dared you undertake on the person of a true believer a thing of which you knew not what might be the consequences?"

"I guessed that it would come out all right, your highness."

"Well, you guessed wrong, as you shall presently see. Where did you learn to guess?"

"At a medical university, your highness."

"How long did you study there before you were allowed to ply your trade?"

"Six months, O fountain of wisdom."

"Can you read or write?"

"No, your highness."

"What did you study at the university?"

"We had ten lectures on materia medica, ten on physiology, ten on anatomy, ten on pathology, and the professors vivisected some 300 dogs for our entertainment."

"Mustapha, did you ever see the woman's daughter?"

"I have, your sublime highness."

"Was she as beautiful as the woman had said?"

"Yes, truly, your highness."

"Allah knows that beautiful faces are no more plentiful, slave. You shall be punished not only for decreasing their number, but for pretending to know how to heal when you have learned only how to kill, Mustapha."

"Here, proprietor of all knowledge."

"Do you go to this man's house and seize all the medicine and instruments therein. Then let him be put on a platform in the public square, and each day let him be given a generous portion of his own medicine, and let each of his instruments in turn be tried upon him. If he by any chance he shall survive this, then let him be publicly hung strong."

"I kiss the dust of your sublime feet, O creature of ju-tice," said the woman.

"Allah Kebur—God is great!" remarked the cadi as he retired to his bazaar. "Mohammed is the most high prophet, and I am the only original cadi from Cadiville."—Life.

Not Always Safe.

A dudish looking party in a long tailed overcoat and turned up trousers was picking his way gingerly over a muddy downtown crossing the other afternoon when a rakish looking party in a rain coat and rubber boots caught sight of him.

The spectacle of a live walking dudie appeals irresistibly to the average man's sense of the ludicrous, and the rakish looking citizen, imitating the gait and general bearing of the other, stalked along solemnly by his side a block or two in apparent consciousness of the fact that he was creating a scene. On and on went the amused audience of spectators until the walk.

In going over another muddy crossing the rakish looking party, as if by accident, tripped the dudie. The latter narrowly escaped a fall, and as he recovered himself he swung his right. It landed squarely on the jaw, and his tormentor went down as if a pile driver had struck him.

"You can see me, don't you know," he drawled. "but, how Jove, you mustn't monkey with me!"—Chicago Tribune.

Lucky.

"It was his right arm, you know."

"Well, what if it was his right arm?"

"Why, he is left handed!"—Tit-Bits.

Surprised.

"Mrs. Goodson is going to start a dress reform movement here. What do you think of it?"

"Merely. I had never noticed that her figure was so bad as all that."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

LOOK TO YOUR DAUGHTERS

The Wives and the Mothers that are to Be.

Their Thin, Pale Cheeks and Lack of Spirit Leaves No Doubt.

The Nerves are Poorly Fed and Blood Lacks in Bed Corpuses.

Oh, my boys are never nervous. One couldn't stand that. But with girls, you know doctor, it is different.

Too many mothers reason like that.

They do not like to hear their girls called tomboys, and they hasten to make them "ladylike," to keep them from running and climbing and from visor us games, while the boys are laying in a stock of health that will last them far into the middle age.

The least sign of physical failure on the part of girls at the critical times in their lives should ring a grave alarm. Pale lips, nervous habits, retarded growth, a lack of high, youthful spirits and a poor condition of the skin, urgently demand a better and a more complete nutrition.

In all cases, whether it be a young child or an aged person, Paine's celery compound adds vigor and increases weight by strengthening the very foundation of health, by feeding blood and nerves richly and promptly.

It is only when the nerve centers are healthy that the other bodily functions can be healthy.

If anxious mothers will only follow the advice of the most careful physicians, make sure that their children are getting sufficient material to meet the big demands made by their growing nerves and tissues, there will be an end to the weakly condition, the continual headaches, the "bluedays" and the general ill-health that so few young girls escape.

The best ally against nervousness and irritability is that remarkable nerve food, Paine's celery compound, first prescribed by Dartmouth's greatest educator. Day by day, when taken with the regularity and care that physicians say is indispensable for excellent results, comes invariably a steady gain in weight, which can mean but one thing: a gain in quantity and the quality of the blood.

Trifles begin to worry them less, sleep comes naturally and refreshing, appetite increases, and their frames grow plump with solid flesh, because all the delicate parts of their nervous system, upon which the nutrition and well-being of the body directly depend, are beginning to work without friction.

A body thus fed by Paine's celery compound makes those joys and little innocent pleasures possible, without which childhood and girlhood is sad to look upon.
